To all interested parties:

Volunteers in Medicine secured the services of Schooley Mitchell Telecom Consultants in the winter of 2009. Andrew and Paul McMenamain worked diligently with our staff to perform an audit and evaluation of the communication services we had been paying for. Through their efforts we have nearly halved our monthly telecommunications costs with no degradation in service and a faster internet connection as well.

Volunteers in Medicine recommend the services of Schooley Mitchell Telecom Consultants for any business that desires to control and manage their communications costs while maintaining their current service levels. Andrew and Paul delivered results with accuracy, integrity, and efficiency. They explained the process, continually provided information on the research progress, and in the end delivered valuable results.

Sincerely,

Frank W. Bowen, M.D.
