To whom it may concern:

We manage our telecommunications costs very closely at Mobile Content Networks (MCN), so at first I was unsure whether there would be an opportunity for further savings on our already low cost structure. Here is where I was surprised. Matt Schlegel of Schooley Mitchell took the time and carefully studied how MCN uses each of our services. He spoke with our service providers to find the best plans to meet our specific needs. He has found double digit percentage savings on each of the services that he reviewed, saving MCN a substantial amount of money on a monthly basis. The best news is that we did not have to switch any of our providers to realize these savings. And, Matt managed the entire implementation process, saving us time as well as money.

I appreciate the Schooley Mitchell approach of independent and objective analysis with the goal of saving money. It is great to have both Matt and Schooley Mitchell on our team. If you are interested in saving money on your telecommunications costs, I recommend you speak with Schooley Mitchell as soon as possible.

Yours truly,
