To Whom It May Concern;

RE: Schooley Mitchell Telecom Consultants

In September of 2005 we retained Schooley Mitchell to examine our telecom services and advise us if we could reduce our costs in this area. Bill Webster and Tony Forbes worked on our file. They examined every aspect of the services we were using.

Schooley Mitchell's review of our telecom expense illustrated that significant savings. We asked them to go ahead and make the specific changes which we selected. The changes were made with very little impact to our staff and yielded savings over 20% of our monthly telecom costs.

We have found their service to be valuable and would recommend the cost reduction service to other companies looking to see if there are savings to be gained in the telecom area.

It is helpful knowing that an independent firm has analyzed our business relationships in the telecom area and advised we have the best arrangements available to us.

Sincerely,
