To whom it may concern:

Communications systems and services, while a necessary component to our business have become very high tech and complicated and we do not have the time to research alternative services not check complicated billings.

In January of 2004, we engaged Schooley Mitchell Telecom Consultants to review the services we were using and see if we could improve our existing services lower costs. Schooley Mitchell reviews our cellular, paging, land lines and long distance services. They found that we had the right services for our needs and were able to reduce our communication expenses by 24%.

In addition Schooley Mitchell is now reviewing our services each quarter to ensure our services continue to meet our needs.

We recommend Schooley Mitchell's service to any company looking to improve their communications services or lower costs.

Nick's Woodcraft specializes in commercial custom wood work. Our industry is growing rapidly and the communications services are very demanding. Schooley Mitchell's efforts are appreciated.

Sincerely,

Lisa Dahl
