

To Whom It May Concern,

I am honored to write this recommendation letter in recognition of a great business coach, Andy McDowell. Andy works with Generate Your Value to solve problems for major corporations using proprietary programs, courses, and coaching to help them earn money, work less and enjoy the journey of entrepreneurship.

Andy is a dynamic and powerful coach who works to help owners realize their full potential. He believes that business is a means to an end and not an end itself. Andy offers his unique expertise with Generate Your Value through four distinct courses of The Pinnacle Success System: Pinnacle Gift, Pinnacle Productivity, Pinnacle Offering and Pinnacle Process.

Andy uses his 22 years of experience with Boeing Company to help clients discover their value both personally and professionally. He has a bachelor's degree from Georgia Tech in Electrical Engineering and a master's degree in Computer Information Systems from Georgia State. Later, Andy was asked to develop an airspace design consulting business from scratch that would service the global government market. With his travel around the world, Andy gained invaluable experience as an entrepreneur, all of which he uses today to help others garner the same success.

I highly recommend seeking Andy out if you are looking for ways to increase your success as an entrepreneur. With his intuitive and creative approach, Andy's expertise will help you envision a future filled with possibilities, joy, and success in all areas.

Yours truly,

David Burke
Business Optimization Specialist
Schooley Mitchell