Denis Tan of Schooley Mitchell approached us with an offer to review some of our business expenses risk-free. He informed us that the only compensation his company receives, come from sharing the savings they find us when it is implemented.

We weren't sure how much savings Denis and his team could find us as we are a small business. But since the audit is risk-free, we figured, why not give it a shot? And so we signed the service agreement with Denis and had his team review our waste and merchant services bills.

Schooley Mitchell performed an analysis and came back to us about a month later. They managed to help us reduced our waste cost by 26.59% and merchant services by 45.29%. In addition, we wanted a physical terminal to process some of our credit card payments, and Schooley Mitchell covered 50% of the cost. His team continues to audit our statements every month to ensure our bills are free from errors and unwanted price increase.

Denis continues to be a very resourceful in providing my team some advice as we begin a new journey for starting up an e-commerce store.

I strongly recommend any business owner to give Denis Tan of Schooley Mitchell a call. His service is risk-free, and he is very passionate about helping business owners like us save time and money.

Sincerely,
