

To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to provide this letter of recommendation for The Principia, an educational institution which includes Principia School and Principia College. Principia School is an independent, coeducational day and boarding school in St. Louis, Missouri, serving students from early childhood through grade 12. Principia College is a private liberal arts college in Elsah, Illinois, offering undergraduate programs in a distinctive residential learning environment.

Together, these institutions are committed to academic excellence, student development, character education, and preparing students for lives of purpose and service. Both institutes offer a broad range of educational services, including classroom-based instruction, experiential learning opportunities, extracurricular activities, and student support services. Their curriculums are structured to promote critical thinking, personal responsibility, and intellectual growth.

Equally notable is the strength of the team that stands behind Principia School and Principia College. They are supported by qualified educators, administrators, and support staff who work collaboratively to deliver consistent and effective instruction. Each one demonstrates professionalism, organization, and a shared dedication to supporting student success both academically and personally.

The Principia consists of respected educational institutions that are distinguished by comprehensive services and capable team. It is well-suited for families seeking a structured, supportive learning environment and I can't recommend them enough.

Sincerely,

David Dow
Strategic-Partner
Schooley Mitchell