

To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to recommend Damar Services, a nonprofit based in Indianapolis, Indiana. Damar Services is a long-standing and respected provider of support for individuals with developmental, behavioral, and intellectual disabilities, helping to create meaningful impact.

Damar Services offers a wide array of support and care options, including autism diagnosis and intensive therapeutic intervention through applied behavior analysis. It also provides residential treatment for children and youth, group-home and transitional living settings, outpatient behavioral health services, and specialized educational programming through its academies.

The team at Damar brings together skilled, compassionate professionals who are deeply committed to the people they serve. They work closely with each individual, listening, understanding, and providing support tailored to their unique needs. Their dedication goes beyond therapy, education, and residential care. Every interaction is guided by empathy and a shared goal of helping each person grow toward greater independence.

I highly recommend Damar for its outstanding work supporting individuals with behavioral and developmental disabilities. Its personalized programs promote growth and independence, that help make a meaningful difference in the lives of its clients and the community.

Sincerely,

Rodney Wead
Strategic-Partner
Schooley Mitchell