

To whom it may concern,

I would like to take this opportunity to write a letter of recommendation to recognize a great company, Acme Construction Supply. Founded in 1953, Acme Construction Supply is a West Coast commercial and industrial distributor that serves major metropolitan markets like Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

Acme Construction Supply it is a dynamic total quality organization that services the commercial construction, residential housing, industrial maintenance, and consumer markets. It is on the forefront of the construction distribution industry and stocks over 50,000 products. It also offers added services to its clients, such as job site delivery, safety training, equipment rentals, inventory management and more.

Acme Construction Supply stands out by training and employing true industry experts to help its customers achieve their goals. From delivery drivers and warehouse workers to sales representatives and leaders, they all strive to build long-term customer relationships.

I highly recommend Acme Construction Supply to anyone who needs a distributor they can trust. With its experienced team, you can rest assured knowing you're in the hands of professionals who will deliver quality products on time and within budget.

Sincerely,

Christine Parsons
